Arantxa Araujo	Tlāhuīlli (svetloba sveče/baklje)
Arantxa Araujo je mehiška umetnica z ozadjem v nevroznanosti. Njeno delo je multidisciplinarno, feministično in zakoreninjeno v biovedenjskih raziskavah. Raziskovanja spolnih konstrukcij, performativnosti in identitete ter migracijske politike se vidijo in doživljajo v njenih instalacijah, ki pogosto vključujejo video, zvok, fotografijo, mapiranje, svetlobo in performans.	Tlāhuīlli je lik iz predstave Arantxa Araujo Cabeza(s) de Mujer(es) (2018) (Ženske glave) To umetniško delo temelji na latinskoameriški epidemiji femicidov, ki pogosto ubijajo ženske s strani njihovih partnerjev. Ta naraščajoči problem v Mehiki je prezrt zaradi heteropatriarhalnega sistema (machismo), kjer politiki/moški pogosto krivijo videz in obnašanje ženske za napade na njih. Ženske v Mehiki živijo s tem nevarnim pojavom, saj se počutijo, kot da bi lahko bil vsak njihov sprehod po ulici zadnji, da njihovi glasovi niso slišni ali verodostojni. Ženske glave je projekt o ponovnem predstavljanju mehiških žensk - kdo so, kaj si želijo in kako bi lahko živele. Gre za osredotočanje na glasove in pravice žensk.

Arantxa Araujo	Tlāhuīlli (clarity, candlelight, torchlight)
Arantxa Araujo is a Mexican artist with a background in neuroscience. Her work is multidisciplinary, feminist, and rooted in bio-scientific research of behavior. Research into gender constructions, performativity and identity, and migration policy is seen and experienced in her installations, which often include video, sound, photography, mapping, light, and performance.	Tlāhuīlli is a character from Arantxa Araujo's play Cabeza(s) de Mujer(es) (2018) (Women's Heads). This work of art is based on the Latin American epidemic of femicides, the phenomenon that women are often killed by their partners. This growing problem in Mexico is ignored by the heteropatriarchal system (machismo), where politicians/men often blame women's appearance and behavior for attacks on them. Women in Mexico live with this dangerous phenomenon and feel that just a simple walk down the street could be their last, that their voices are not heard or authentic. Women's Heads is a project that re-introduces Mexican women - who they are, what they want, and how they could live. It is about focusing on women's voices and rights.

Diplomiral je iz fotografije na Univerzi v Puerto Ricu (2015) in magistriral iz likovne umetnosti na Parsons The New School for Design (2018). Raziskuje ideje o moči, kolonializmu in zgodovini s svojo identiteto kot kontekstom. Ukvarja se z reprezentacijami kolonialnega subjekta. To počne skozi presečišče struktur kot so prostor, jezik, zgodovina in politika, s svojim telesom, ki prehaja meje med Portorikom (kolonija) in Združenimi državami (celina). Skuša odkriti konstrukcijo zgodovinske dediščine, pri čemer uporablja svoje telo kot politično shrambo, kolonizirano z več strukturami moči: kot Portoričan, kot migrant iz diaspore, kot oseba s posebnimi potrebami in kot queer oseba.	Oseba iz performansa Blue Tarp (Modra ponjava) Carryover (Blue Tarp Series), 2018-Present Kaj se zgodi, ko telo postane struktura za zaščito? Kevin Quiles Bonilla se v svojih performansih ukvarja z modro ponjavo, ki je postala ikonografski simbol v Portoriku po orkanu María (2017). Te ponjave so prejeli prebivalci od Zvezne agencije za upravljanje v sili (FEMA) če je streho na njihovi hiši poškodoval orkan. Številne hiše na otoku so še vedno (štiri leta po naravnih nesrečah) pokrite s temi ponjavami.

He deals with representations of the colonial subject through the intersection of structures such as space, language, history, and politics, with his body which crosses the border between Puerto Rico (colony) and the United States (continent). He seeks to uncover the construction of historical heritage by using his body as a political repository colonized by several power structures: as a Puerto Rican, as a diaspora migrant, as a person with special needs, and as a queer person.	A person from the performance Blue Tarp, Carryover (Blue Tarp Series), 2018-Present. What happens when the body becomes a protective structure? Many houses on the island are still (four years after the natural disaster) covered with these tarps.

Mladi feniks spremeni pepel v jajce in ga pošlje v mesto Heliopolis (grško mesto sonca) v Egiptu. Zaradi tega priljubljenega prepričanja je feniks v zgodnjem krščanstvu postal simbol vstajenja. At the end of its life cycle, the phoenix burns out and a young phoenix emerges from the ashes. Because of this popular belief, the phoenix became a symbol of resurrection in early Christianity. He is believed to have healing tears and the ability to heal injuries and wounds inflicted on him by enemies.

Kiyon	KiYKiYBlac
Kiyon je pevec in maneken. Njegova reperska glasba je razkošna, zabavna in lirična. Odraščal je v Bostonu kot temnopolti gej otrok, ki se je moral naučiti braniti s svojo ostro pametjo in inteligenco. Našel je svoj izraz kot raper, ki govori s svoje perspektive – kot gej, temnopolti in še veliko več. Ko nastopa na odru, spoznava, da je drugačen od drugih reperjev in da je govorjenje iz gejevskih izkušenj še vedno nekaj, kar v rap-skupnosti ni splošno sprejeto. S tem premika meje in izziva status quo. Kiyon	KiYKiYBlac
Kiyon is a singer and model. His rap music is lavish, fun, and lyrical. He grew up in Boston as a black gay child who had to learn to defend himself with his sharp wit and intelligence. He found his expression as a rapper who speaks from his own perspective - as gay, black, and much more. When he performs on stage, he realizes that he is different from other rappers and that speaking from a gay experience is something that is still not generally accepted in the rap community. With this, he pushes the boundaries and challenges the status quo. He finds inspiration in positive feedback after performances and does not allow his fears to stop him from achieving his dreams.	KiYKiYBlac is his stage name and alter-ego on the scene.
