From the perspective of various stakeholders

- Government/national level
- Healthcare professionals
- Patients and relatives

The government/national level

- The opportunity to increase the public health status through learning from patient safety incidents
- A legislation ensuring health professionals a space for learning
- A homogeneous tool for local reporting and learning
- A searchable national database
- Learning and education clusters across hospitals
- Patient safety culture
- The economic potential of learning from patient safety incidents

Healthcare professionals

- The positive experience of improving your skills through reporting and learning
- The experience of contributing to patient safety
- A way of processing “second victim”-feelings
